APPLY FOR A SPECIALTY CROP BLOCK GRANT

RESEARCHERS, FARMERS, OTHERS CAN WIN FUNDING TO ADVANCE
SPECIALTY CROP INDUSTRY

BY SCDA

The South Carolina Department of Agriculture is now accepting applications for the USDA Specialty Crop Block Grant Program.

“The specialty crop industry is vital to the future of South Carolina agriculture,” said Commissioner of Agriculture Hugh Weathers. “These grants encourage competition, entrepreneurship and innovation in farming, helping South Carolina farmers support their families and communities.”

The Specialty Crop Block Grant Program is administered by the USDA Agricultural Marketing Service. The program is committed to strengthening the market for specialty crops, which are defined as fruits, vegetables, tree nuts, dried fruits, horticulture (including honey), and nursery crops (including floriculture).

Applicants should propose projects that provide one or more of the following benefits:

- Enhanced food safety
- Improved capacity of all entities in the specialty crop distribution chain to comply with the requirements of the Food Safety Modernization Act, Investment in specialty crop research, including research to focus on conservation and environmental outcomes
- Development of new and improved seed varieties and specialty crops

The urban farm at Hub City Farmers Market supports two Specialty Crop Block Grant projects awarded in recent years, providing an educational setting for the Seed-to-Table program and support for the Mobile Market. Photo courtesy Hub City Farmers Market.

- Enhanced pest and disease control
- Increased child and adult nutrition knowledge and consumption of specialty crops
- Increased efficiency and reduced costs of distribution systems
- Enhanced sustainability

Proposed projects must fall within the criteria as described in the application.

Applications are available at scspecialtycropblockgrant.com and are due by 11:59 p.m. on Friday, March 27, 2020. Applications must be submitted by email to bdorton@scda.sc.gov. For more information, contact Betsy Dorton at 803-734-2210 or bdorton@scda.sc.gov.

MARKET BULLETIN PRINT SUBSCRIPTION TO INCREASE BY $5 PER YEAR

BY EVA MOORE

In July 2001, George W. Bush was president of the United States, Les Tindal was South Carolina Commissioner of Agriculture, and, for the first time ever, the South Carolina Market Bulletin began charging a subscription fee.

That was 19 years ago — and the cost to subscribe hasn’t changed since. But starting July 1, 2020, we’re raising the price of a print subscription to the Market Bulletin to $15 per year, up from $10.

Since 2001, the cost of a first-class stamp has increased from 34 cents to 55 cents, and the cost to mail publications like Market Bulletin has increased as well. Printing costs have gone up, too. Nonetheless, the Market Bulletin subscription rate has remained $10 per year.

The money we take in from subscriptions doesn’t cover the cost to produce the Market Bulletin, which includes staffing, design, and the software to handle subscriptions and ads, along with the aforementioned printing and mailing costs. The South Carolina Department of Agriculture makes up the difference in cost, because we consider the Market Bulletin a public good. But we do depend on readers to contribute as well — and the cost to produce the Bulletin has gone up.

In a reader survey conducted in 2018, 90 percent of South Carolina Market Bulletin subscribers said they’d be willing to accept some degree of subscription increase. In fact, many said they’d accept an increase of $10 per year, but we chose a more modest increase of $5.

Please note that we’re only increasing the print subscription rate, reflecting the fact that printing and mailing cost more than supplying a digital version of the paper. Digital subscriptions will remain at $10 a year. Those who want both a print and a digital subscription will pay $20, reflecting a savings for the bundle.

Those whose subscriptions are up for renewal on or after July 1, 2020, will renew at the new rate.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me.

COMMISSIONER’S CORNER

HUGH E. WEATHERS

SOUTH CAROLINA
COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE

HONORING SC’S FARMER VETERANS

From cattle to cut flowers, from dairy goats to meat goats to angora goats, from corn to cotton, military veterans are growing food, fiber and fuel across South Carolina.

Last week I had the privilege of attending a lunch organized by the Farmer Veteran Coalition and meeting some of those farmer veterans. This national organization has been working toward starting a South Carolina chapter for the past several years, an effort the South Carolina Department of Agriculture has supported. As I told the group who gathered at the Phillips Market Center: As South Carolina farmers get older, we need new farmers to lead us into the future, and military veterans are a natural fit for the profession. South Carolina has a particularly high rate of farmers who’ve served in the military – 19 percent of principal producers in this state have a military service background.

I was particularly proud of our SCDA staff member Jay Boutchyard who spoke to the group about his transition from military service, a brief retirement, beginning his career with the Department, and then starting up his small farming operation.

The veterans who attended the lunch heard presentations and spoke with representatives of organizations like South Carolina Farm Bureau, the Center for Heirs Property Preservation, USDA’s National Resources Conservation Service and Farm Service Agency, Greenville Tech’s Sustainable Agriculture Program, and Clemson Extension, as well as SCDA’s Agribusiness Center for Research and Entrepreneurship. Representatives of both U.S. Sen. Lindsey Graham and U.S. Sen. Tim Scott attended the meeting, too, and I appreciate their support for veterans and farmers alike.

The coalition offers the Homegrown By Heroes branding program, as well as networking and mentoring opportunities for farmer veterans, some of which I got to see in action as prospective members exchanged experiences and information at the lunch. They also offer grant funding of up to $5,000. The deadline to apply for grants for 2020 is March 6, so if you’re interested, check out farmvetco.org ASAP.

I’m happy to say that the Farmer Veteran Coalition is moving forward with forming a state chapter for South Carolina. You can connect with the chapter organizing committee for South Carolina on Facebook at facebook.com/scfarmvetco.

It’s especially rewarding for the Department of Ag to be working with a great group of men and women who love this country and after their service time is completed, look to a fulfilling career in agriculture in South Carolina.

UPCOMING EVENTS

Flower Pot Gnome Home
February 20 • 10 am – 12 pm
Every yard can use a whimsical, creative touch, so why not add a gnome home? Gnomes are said to be magical protectors of our plants and soil. Because of this they have been spotted in many gardens all across the globe! These flower pot gnome homes are the perfect addition for any porch and are extremely fun to build as adults. All materials are supplied other than a pair of gloves. Participants are encouraged to bring additional items from home to enhance their projects. Cost: $25 per person. Pay by phone or check. Email to reserve your spot if not paying by credit card.

Attracting Bluebirds To Your Yard
February 29 • 10 am
There are 85 species of birds that nest in cavities or houses across North America. A representative of The South Carolina Bluebird Society will be teaching us about cavity-nesting birds (ones that will nest in man-made birdhouses) that live in South Carolina and how you can attract them to your backyard. They will also address what it takes to set up and maintain a Bluebird Trail for the conservation of Bluebirds and other Cavity-nesting Birds in South Carolina. There is a $10 fee. You will receive a $5 coupon and $5 will be donated to the Bluebird Society. Space is limited, and advance registration is required. Register online or call.

Commissioner of Agriculture Hugh Weathers caught up with Sidi Limehouse, South Carolina’s 2019 Swisher Sweets/Sunbelt Ag Expo Farmer of the Year, at the 2020 AgriBiz Expo and Trade Show in Florence.

HEMP FARMING PERMIT APPLICATION DEADLINE IS MARCH 31

The South Carolina Department of Agriculture began accepting applications for hemp farming, handling and processing permits for the 2020 growing season on Feb. 1, 2020.

Now in its third year, South Carolina’s hemp farming program has grown from 20 farmers in 2018 to 114 permitted farmers and 43 processors at the end of the 2019 season.

In 2020, there is no cap on the number of permits SCDA can issue, and no cap on hemp acreage. SCDA will no longer allow “responsible parties” growing under another farmer’s permit, meaning each person who wishes to farm hemp must apply for a permit.

Requirements to receive a hemp farming permit include:

- Proof of South Carolina residency
- Criminal background check
- $100 nonrefundable application fee and $1,000 permit fee
- GPS coordinates of all locations on which hemp will be grown
- Attending an SCDA orientation and signing a Hemp Farming Agreement prior to possessing any hemp, including clones and seeds

SCDA will also license hemp processors and, for the first time this year, hemp handlers, a category that includes transporters, seed dealers, laboratories, and others who handle hemp. Separate permitting fees, facility requirements, validation inspections and certificate of occupancy are required.

Farming applications are being accepted through March 31, 2020, while processing and handling applications will remain open through the year. Applications are available on the SCDA website, agriculture.sc.gov/hemp.

SCDA is tasked with regulating hemp farming. At present, our agency cannot provide training, information or grants for growing or processing hemp. Those with questions about hemp farming practices should contact their Clemson Cooperative Extension agent.

For more information about the South Carolina Hemp Farming Program, visit agriculture.sc.gov/hemp or call Vanessa Elsalah at 803-734-8339.

GOT UNWANTED PESTICIDES?

EDISTO REC COLLECTION DATE SET FOR UNWANTED PESTICIDES

The South Carolina Department of Agriculture is partnering with Clemson University Edisto Research and Education Center (REC) to accept unwanted or unused pesticides on Wednesday, March 4, 2020, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Edisto REC is located at 64 Research Road, Blackville, SC 29817.

The pesticide and chemical collection program is open to all private, commercial and non-commercial pesticide applicators in the state, as well as homeowners. SCDA staff will be on site to monitor pesticide collection, disposal and will have final authority on acceptance of products.

HOUSEHOLD HAZARDOUS MATERIALS AND PESTICIDE COLLECTION TO BE HELD IN YORK COUNTY

The South Carolina Department of Agriculture and York County will hold a household hazardous materials and pesticide collection on Saturday, March 7, 2020, from 8 a.m. to noon at the York County Public Works facility, 220 Public Works Road (off Highway 5) near the Moss Justice Center in York.

Collection of unwanted and unused pesticides is open to residents and farmers of any South Carolina county, while the household materials collection is open only to residents of York County. SCDA will be on site to monitor pesticide collection and disposal and will have final authority on acceptance of products.

The Household Hazardous Materials Collection Event is funded in a partnership between SCDA and York County Government.

PROGRAM TO AWARD $20K TO ENTREPRENEUR IN HEALTHY FOOD BUSINESSES

BY SOUTH CAROLINA COMMUNITY LOAN FUND

BLUFFTON, SOUTH CAROLINA – Applications are now open for Feeding Innovation, an eight-week program looking to help local entrepreneurs interested in developing or expanding healthy food businesses in food deserts or underserved areas of the state.

During the classes, participants will receive entrepreneurial training provided by Clemson Extension that covers everything needed to develop a basic healthy food business plans from marketing to financial planning to negotiations and deal-making. At the end of the program participants will present their business plans to a panel. The strongest business plan will be awarded $20,000 for start-up costs.

South Carolina Community Loan Fund, a lending nonprofit whose mission is to advance equitable access to capital, created Feeding Innovation in 2014 with the goal of increasing access to healthy food while supporting the development of strong, local entrepreneurs and community-based businesses.

The organization recently expanded its awarded amount from $12,500 to $20,000. "Since 2014, Feeding Innovation has provided several cohorts of exceptional entrepreneurs, interested in expanding healthy food access, with the tools necessary to develop comprehensive business plans," said James Chatfield, Chief Lending Officer with SCCLF. "With the generous support of the Blue Cross Blue Shield South Carolina Foundation, we are excited to increase our seed capital investment from $12,500 to $20,000 as we look forward to continuing to engage local partners across the state in this critical work."

The next Feeding Innovation session takes place in Bluffton, South Carolina on Wednesday evenings starting in March. Applications are due Feb. 28. A $100 deposit is required and is refunded upon completion of the program. For more information visit sccommunityloanfund.org/feeding-innovation.

About South Carolina Community Loan Fund: South Carolina Community Loan Fund (SCCLF) is a nonprofit CDFI located in Charleston, Columbia and Spartanburg. We provide loans, support services, advocacy, and knowledge for the development of affordable housing, healthy food enterprises, community facilities, and community businesses. We acknowledge that the need for our work is rooted in generations of injustice and disinvestment, so we focus on serving people of color, women, low-income individuals, and those in rural communities.

SCDA PESTICIDE COLLECTION INFORMATION

- Quantities will be limited to 2,500 pounds of solid and 300 gallons of liquid at no charge.
- Acceptable products include herbicides, insecticides, nematicides, fungicides and similar products used in agriculture production or around the home.
- Prohibited items include empty pesticide containers, rinsate, infectious, biological or radioactive materials, explosives, and major appliances.
- A hazardous material company will be on site to properly dispose of the materials collected.
- Materials should be transported to the collection event in sturdy boxes with newspaper stuffed between the containers to prevent spills.
- Leave items in the original containers.
- Workers will be on hand to unload vehicles, and citizens will be asked to stay in the car.
- Collection events may be cancelled due to inclement weather and will be posted on SCDA’s website (agriculture.sc.gov). Possible makeup dates will be announced at a later date.

For additional information, or to sign up to receive notice of future pesticide collection events, contact SCDA’s John Stokes at 803-737-9696 or jstokes@scda.sc.gov.
